Putting happy faces on pumpkins

Stensrud Lodge residents and Grade 8 students from St. Augustine School are celebrating Halloween with pumpkins painting, an activity that's an annual tradition for them. Students join residents of the long-term care home regularly for activities, visiting and special events, while residents attend musicals and band concerts at the school.

Wednesday's activity offers a different take on the traditional carved jack o' lantern. Pumpkin painting is a fun, less messy and safer way to celebrate Halloween and painted pumpkins can last four weeks or longer.
